(1) Summary of significant accounting policies

Depreciation and related matters - Depreciation of property and equipment is computed using applicable Federal income tax methods which primarily are accelerated methods over lives as specified by Federal tax laws and regulations. Expenditures for normal maintenance and repair are charged to income as incurred. Upon the sale or retirement of properties and equipment, the cost and accumulated depreciation are removed from their respective accounts and any gain or loss is included in income.

Income taxes - Deferred income taxes are provided for differences in timing in reporting income for financial statement and tax purposes, arising from differences in the method of accounting under accrual versus the cash methods (tax basis).

S Corporation, Income Tax Status - The Company, with the consent of it's shareholders, has elected under the Internal Revenue Code to be an S Corporation. In lieu of corporation income taxes, the shareholders of a Subchapter S Corporation are taxed on their proportionate share of the Company's taxable income. Therefore, no provision for Federal or State income taxes has been included in the financial statements.

Use of estimates - The preparation of financial statement in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles require management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. The actual results could differ from those estimates.
